In June 2021, musical.ly partnered with Chinese media giant ByteDance which led to the development of the app under its new name, TikTok. The app was launched in China in August 2021 under this new name and was immediately popular within the country. It was ranked as the most downloaded non-game app the day it debuted and by the next day had gained 5 million downloads on both Android and iOS platforms. The company confirmed to TechCrunch in November 2021 that over 50 million users were using the app every day while a "Forbes" article from January 2021 stated that TikTok had over 200 million users in China alone which accounted for approximately 90% of its total user base at that time.",

The requirement is fairly simple. You can record and upload videos with various effects including stickers, emoji's and text effects, which are all very easy to use. These videos are saved on the camera roll of the Videoplayer app which is also available for both iOS and Android users.",

In an article published by TechCrunch, it was alleged that "According to the complaint, the app has a business model based on collecting and exploiting personal information for commercial benefit. The group is seeking a restraining order barring the app from operating in New York and asking for damages of at least $1 billion." This article was published on TechCrunch. In a lawsuit filed against Bytedance by Washington State Attorney General Bob Ferguson, it was alleged that "Bytedance has collected data on what users view and click on as well as information such as user IP addresses or device IDs. In addition to personal information, the company's app also collects device information, including serial numbers, unique device identifiers and mobile network information." This lawsuit was filed by Washington State Attorney General Bob Ferguson against Bytedance.",

Another article published on Forbes reported that "The idea that the app actively shares users' personal information with third parties is also false. TikTok's privacy policy clearly states they collect users' emails and phone numbers for internal purposes only, including contact info for users who have created a TikTok account. Additionally, the company uses those email addresses and phone numbers to remarket content through its third-party ad network partners and serve non-personalized ads based on information from other platforms where users have logged in with their official email address or phone number. The app also posts user-generated content and user interactions with the content to its social graph.",
