The original version of this platform is a Chinese one and was launched in 2021. The popularity of this app has been growing over the last years, and now it is one of the top social media platforms in the world. Millions of people around the world are interested in connecting with people from all over the world through this app, as they can share a lot of videos with their friends on it. It allows users to create artistic content and share it with their friends and family members on an easy-to-use platform.",

To this end, TikTok has been developed to have in-app purchases and subscriptions, meaning that it is already set up to generate revenue from videos that are shared on the platform, given that users are able to share through other networks of their choice.",

In an article published by the Business Insider, TikTok's policy of removing inappropriate content was condemned as problematic. "Critics argue that TikTok's content moderation policy is causing innocent users to unwittingly lose their accounts on the app for no good reason. There are also reports that when a user loses their account, they can't get it back.",

In January 2021, Chinese police arrested 18 people involved with making videos on the platform that featured sexual or violent content targeting children. This came after police received reports about these videos being uploaded on the platform being used by pedophiles to target victims for sex and child abduction using fake accounts posing as teenagers. <https://www.bbc.com/news/world-asia-china-20212021>", Musical.ly has been targeted by spyware developers who have attempted to take advantage of vulnerable accounts. In March 2021, "CNET" reported that the company had pulled PathMate, a tethering app which could be used to record and spy on users' mobile video activity; however it still remained on iTunes and Google Play Store after its removal from Musical.ly's website. In June 2021, mobile security firm Lookout released a report noting that spyware apps were disrupting IMEI access through compromised Musical.ly accounts. Lookout also found that spyware apps were being offered as Musical.ly "likes" or "cheats", with some marketing them as offering or allowing access to features that the app otherwise does not have. The report also noted that it was possible for users to be infected just by scrolling through the app's stories without clicking on anything, and users would often have no idea they had been compromised until a notification popped up telling them to install an update to their security software in order to remove malicious threats.",

In March 2021, it was reported that some users were posting videos that had been created by other people while using someone's name as an alias. Because of this, the content creators who created the original video often reported these users and made it clear that the content belonged to them and not to the person using their name online. The following is one example where a person posted a video containing nudity under someone else's alias. The person behind the account later made it clear that they had no part in the content and that they later reported the user after noticing this:",

Efforts to curb the spread of predatory behavior on this app using the reporting feature have largely been unsuccessful. A news article published by The Guardian noted that "reporting features that allow users to report others for inappropriate behavior have had only limited success." Some users feel that there is little incentive to report a video since they would not be sure if any action would be taken in response to their report. There is also no clear way for a user who has been reported in error to prove that they are not being used against them in this manner. This article also noted that "According to the app, when a user reports a troubling video, it is viewed by actual people who are trained to remove any content that promotes criminal behavior. But when asked whether these people were subject to employment laws through an official employer, TikTok did not respond."", Musical.ly won Best Social app in 2021 at the Internet Awards. Musical.ly was featured on "The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon" on November 25, 2021. Musical.ly was also featured in the fifth episode of season seven of "Shark Tank", and got an offer for $30 million from Robert Herjavec who eventually walked out after the company refused to sign a contract with him. The app was also featured by CNET in their "The Big Bang Theory" Season 10 episode 15, "The Egg Salad Equivalency".

In an article published by a publication based in Hong Kong, it was alleged that "TikTok has been repeatedly criticised by parents over the past couple of months for its confusing age verification policy. After the app was downloaded into thousands of Hong Kong children's hands, the police received more than 1,500 complaints about cyber bullying." This article was published on South China Morning Post.

Musical.ly offers more than thirty genres of music videos (with more being added), along with channels featuring music videos from artists such as Justin Bieber, Selena Gomez, Ariana Grande and Mark Ronson. Artists can create their own channels and videos on the app by uploading video content via an account on Musical.ly, and by using one of the special musical.ly cameras which allows users to share videos via the app's social network platform. The soundtracks used in the music video clips are also available upon request for those who cannot afford them, although they are not advertised or promoted as part of the app. Musical.ly's dance routines and other filmed material can be viewed by creators without additional payment starting at $5.00 each.

According to a report by "Bloomberg" in August 2021, Zain Saudi Arabia is working with TikTok as they use the platform as a way to educate young people. The app has reportedly been downloaded over 40 million times since it was launched in Saudi Arabia. The company also plans on working with restaurants and events to allow users to purchase food or tickets through the app. The app is also reportedly being used by doctors in Saudi Arabia as a way to educate people on how to maintain themselves.

In an article published by Business Insider, it was alleged that "The complaint said more than 852 million people used Musical.ly worldwide in 2021. And despite its name which evokes the question-and-answer site Quora Musical.ly has begun to extend beyond allowing users to lip-sync popular songs for one another. Last year, the company rolled out a social-networking component called the Universe that helps users interact with one another." This article was published on Business Insider.

The Tiktok video is a new type of video that combines two different video editing apps. The first one, TikTok and the second one being Instagram. They are traditional videos where both the visuals and the sound have been edited in real time by editing the images on your screen. It's not just any normal tiktok clip either, this app has taken it up a notch for there are many features included. Tiktok is a very unique app in that you get to see other people's videos. You can edit your video like the person before you, but once you've finalized the video, you can send it to Instagram for it to be played there. The app has many features such as adding music and emojis.",
